OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Global equities rallied in April as sentiment improved driven by rising vaccination rates, continuous policy support and robust economic data. US equities rose to all-time highs as investors focused on economic recovery and strong corporate earnings despite resurging coronavirus cases. Emerging markets continued to lag behind the broad global equity index due to the slow pace of the vaccinations and concerning surge of cases in India. The Federal Reserve maintained its accommodative stance despite the improved economic and labor market data. The central bank kept benchmark rates and the pace of its asset purchases unchanged and reiterated that the economy is still far from full recovery. In terms of fiscal policy, the Biden administration continued to be aggressive in supporting the economy as President Biden followed his USD 2 trillion infrastructure plan with the announcement of his USD 1.8 trillion plan for education and child care. Economic data showed positive signs of recovery, providing a boost for equities. US GDP grew at an annualized rate of 6.4% in the first quarter while jobless claims dropped to its lowest level since the start of the pandemic. Expansion of US business activities accelerated at a faster pace with the US composite PMI increasing to 62.2 from last month's 59.7. Eurozone also showed progress in its recovery as its manufacturing PMI increased from 62.5 to 63.4 for the month. China's services and manufacturing PMI's continued to reflect an expansion boosted by strong export orders and rising business confidence.

Fund Performance. The fund returned 5.54% in April, outperforming the benchmark by 30 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The fund will continue to focus on long-term secular themes, many of which are experiencing increased demand as global enterprises push for modernization and digitalization, while also taking advantage of attractive valuations of cyclical names which are expected to benefit as the market recovers. The fund will maintain its exposure to trends whose pace of adoption have accelerated due to social distance and migration to remote work, such as cloud computing, e-commerce and gaming.
