OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The BPI Government Bond Index was flat month-on-month, returning 0.01% for November. Yields of benchmark government securities rose by an average of 4.43 basis points (bps), led by the belly and long-end of the curve. Daily trading volume was slightly less than the previous month, averaging PHP14.88bn, with the 5-year RTB5-12 and 7-year FXTN7-62 securities seeing the heaviest trading volumes over the month.

The Bureau of the Treasury (BTr) held two FXTN auctions in November: reissuances of FXTN10-64 and 20-23. The 10-year auction saw strong demand and was fully awarded, but the FXTN20-23 saw somewhat tepid demand and was thus only partially awarded by the BTr. The 10-year paper had an issue size of PHP20bn and was awarded at an average yield of 4.6170%, 50 basis points higher than the yield it was awarded at in its last auction held in August. The 20-year issuance likewise had a size of PHP20bn, with only PHP12.271bn awarded out of PHP28.071 in total tenders. Average yield was at 5.341%, which was at the higher end of market expectations earlier that morning. The BTr also released more details on the Premyo Bonds, set to be issued mid-December. The 1-year paper will pay a fixed interest rate of 3% per annum and have a minimum placement amount of Php500.

In the local space, inflation for the month of October came in slightly slower than market expectations, rising 0.8% year-on-year (vs. market expectations of 0.9%). Benign inflation was mainly due to the mild price increases in food and oil. The country's GDP was likewise released, coming in at 6.2% YoY for 3Q19. This was higher than consensus estimate of 6.0% and the first half average of 5.55%. The recovery in economic expansion was attributed to continued increases in household and government spending, while capital formation remained weak. Moving forward, monetary authorities will continue to vigilantly monitor economic data so as to determine an appropriate policy response.

Fund Performance. The Fund underperformed its benchmark by 40 bps in November.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to invest in a diversified mix of securities primarily issued by Philippine corporations.
