OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines fell 0.51% in October as Philippine dollar-denominated bond yields rose an average of 12 basis points across the curve.

The US Treasury yield curve steepened for a second month despite the Federal Reserve cutting benchmark rates by another 25 basis points during its policy meeting held towards month end. At the press conference following the meeting, Federal Reserve Chairman Jerome Powell stated that the current level was “likely to remain appropriate” given the moderate economic growth outlook, healthy labor market and inflation hovering at around 2%. Meanwhile, the US-China trade war resolution appeared to be making some headway after negotiations between the two countries concluded with the so-called “Phase One” agreement. Market players welcomed the news with optimism, pushing US equities to fresh record highs while simultaneously selling their US Treasury holdings. The US 10-year benchmark yield rose to as high as 1.84% before closing October at the 1.69% level.

In the local space, inflation for the month of September came in slightly slower than market expectations, rising 0.9% year-on-year (vs. market expectations of 1.1%). The minimal increase for the month reflected the decline in the food basket due to lower rice prices, as well as lower global oil prices. With inflation for the year expected to settle within the BSP's 2-4% target range, and perhaps in response to weak second-quarter GDP data, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) announced a surprise 1% cut to banks' Reserve Requirement Ratios, to be effected in early December. Moving forward, monetary authorities will continue to vigilantly monitor economic data so as to determine an appropriate policy response.

Fund Performance. The Fund rose by 0.15% in October, ahead of the benchmark by 1 basis point.

Fund Strategy. The fund will maintain its duration of less than 1 and will continuously look into corporate bonds for yield enhancement.
