- Have an investment horizon of more than five (5) years

KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Interest Rate Risk: The fund invests in a portfolio of Philippine Sovereign and corporate securities comprising the JP Morgan Asia Credit Philippines Total Return Index, exposing investors to the risk of loss arising from a rise in interest rates, which generally causes fixed income security prices to decline. Factors/ events that may lead to a rise interest rates include adverse market conditions, issuer-specific factors/ events and/ or negative developments in domestic and global political and economic conditions.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the fund's inability to convert security holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited buyers/ sellers in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among other reasons/ factors.

Related Party Risk: Investors are exposed to actual or potential conflicts of interest in the handling of related party transactions by the Trustee, specifically, the execution of trade transactions with related counterparties.

Credit/Default Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the failure of the borrower/ debt issuer to make timely interest and/ or principal payments on its deposit liabilities, loans, bonds or other debt instruments due to a deterioration in the borrower's/ issuer's financial condition or external factors and events that may affect its ability to repay financial obligations such as negative developments in domestic and global political and economic conditions.

Index Tracking Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of not being able to achieve a level of return that matches the index being tracked by the fund due primarily to operating and fund management expenses.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines returned 3.73% in April as Philippine dollar-denominated bond yields fell by an average of 34.0 basis points (bps) across the curve. Record-low developed market bond yields at the start of the month may have contributed to a partial reversal of the outflows from emerging market dollar debt observed in March.

Global markets rallied in April due to significant fiscal and monetary stimulus announcements, with governments responding to deteriorating economic data as the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic continue. Some countries, particularly in Europe and Asia, started to relax business restrictions as daily infection rates started to fall. Market volatility was less extreme than it had been in March, and central bank assurances kept yields low despite the rally in riskier assets. While the US Federal Reserve kept its policy rate unchanged, it vowed to be "forceful, proactive, and aggressive" in combating the economic effects of the pandemic. 10-year US Treasury yields closed the month at 0.64%, slightly lower than their levels at the end of March.

On the local front, the Philippine government issued two tranches of dollar-denominated debt: USD1bn-worth of 10-year debt with a coupon of 2.457% and USD1.35bn-worth of 25-year debt with a coupon of 2.95%, the lowest coupons ever set for issuances of these tenors. Tenders for both issuances exceeded USD4.5bn each, reflecting strong demand. In the local economic space, inflation for the month of March averaged 2.5% year-on-year, slowing from February's 2.6% figure. However, risk sentiment continued to be dampened by the escalation of the global COVID-19 pandemic, with a number of significant downgrades to Philippine GDP forecasts after a 4-week extension of the country's enhanced community quarantine to mid-May. Amid continued economic uncertainty and falling inflation, the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) enacted an off-cycle cut of its benchmark policy rate by 50 bps, bringing its year-to-date policy rate easing to 125 bps. Toward the end of the month, BSP Governor Benjamin Diokno suggested that a pause to policy rate easing might be appropriate, but that monetary stimulus in other forms would be likely, given expectations for disinflation and lower economic growth..

Fund Performance. The fund returned 3.54% for the month, behind its benchmark index by 19 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to closely track the JPMorgan Asia Credit Total Return Index. Investors in a bond fund must be prepared to withstand volatility as higher investment value is typically achieved over the medium to long term.
