OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The BPI Government Bond Index fell by 3.07% in February as yields climbed by an average of 69 basis points across the curve. The rise was seen across all tenors with the short-end, belly and long-end of the curve rising by 86, 68 and 47 basis points, respectively. Compared to the month of January, peso-denominated government bonds were much less actively traded with an average daily volume of Php7.5 billion. Trades were mostly seen on the liquid securities such as the recently-issued 5-year RTB5-11, the 14-year 20-17, and the shorter-tenored 3-year RTB 3-8.

The Bureau of the Treasury's two FXTN auctions during the month saw somewhat tepid demand as investors looked to trim positions amid expectations of rising interest rates globally. The first was a new 7-year FXTN issuance, which was fully rejected by the BTR. The auction was oversubscribed with total bids amounting to Php25.8 billion relative to the Php20 billion auction size. Had it been awarded, the average yield on the 7-year paper would have been at 5.273% compared to the 4.390% awarded during the last successful 7-year auction on October 18, 2017. Bids for the auction rose as investors reacted to the higher-than-expected January inflation print released earlier that morning.

The second auction, a new issuance of a 20-year paper (FXTN20-22), was partially awarded at an average yield of 6.414%, with a coupon of 6.5%. Only Php8.85 billion out of the Php20 billion initial offer was accepted. Bids amounted to Php22.766 billion. The average yield was 137 basis points higher than the last successful 20-year bond auction (FXTN20-21), causing market players to sell off on the long end of the curve.

On the local front, inflation for the month of January hit 4%, the highest level in three years. The increase in consumer prices was largely due to the recently implemented Tax Reform for Acceleration and Inclusion (TRAIN) law. While still within the BSP's targeted range of 2-4% for the year, the higher-than-anticipated CPI print sparked a sell-off in the local fixed income space as market players mulled over the possibility of quicker rate hikes from the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas.

In a meeting concluded last February 15, the BSP announced a cut in the country's Reserve Requirement Ratio (RRR) from 20% to 19% effective March 2, 2018. BSP Governor Espenilla noted, however, that an RRR cut should not be taken as a shift in their monetary policy stance. A cut in the RRR implies increased liquidity in the financial system, which could help support economic activity and capital market development over the medium term.

Fund Performance. The Fund outperformed its benchmark by 82 bps in February.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to invest in a diversified mix of securities primarily issued by Philippine corporations.
