Risk Characteristics

Risk Measures

	Fund	JACI Phils Total Return
Duration	6.64	6.61
Volatility, Past 360 Days	15.59%	17.12%

Duration measures the sensitivity of NAVpu to interest rate movements. As interest rates rise, bond prices fall. The higher the duration, the more NAVpu will fluctuate in relation to changes in interest rates. Volatility measures the fluctuations in NAVpu. The higher the number, the higher the potential gain or loss.

Risk Disclosure

An index tracker bond fund is suitable for investors who take medium- to long term views and want exposure to Philippine bonds. As a marked-to-market UITF, the Fund's yield, net asset value, and total return may fall as well as rise as a result of interest rate movements and the changes in credit quality of the investments. On redemption of units, an investor may receive an amount less than the original amount of the investment. Liquidity risk also needs to be taken into account.

Fund Manager's Report

Philippine dollar-denominated sovereign bonds showed resilience in February with ROP prices higher by 1.3% and yields lower 58bps month-on-month. ROP spreads to US Treasuries narrowed by an average of 56bps. Investors bought into ROPs ahead of the almost $1 billion ROP09 maturity on March 12. There were some bouts of profit-taking though during the month particularly on supply concerns when Indonesia announced the issuance of $3 billion new 5 and 10-year bonds which fetched yields of 10.5% and 11.75%, respectively, 430bps higher than similar tenor ROPs. Moreover, Vietnam announced that it will likely join the list of new issuers of dollar-denominated bonds this year, its first after 3 years. Meanwhile, US Treasuries continued to post losses with yields higher by 10bps for the month. Supply overhang caused upward pressure on yields as the US government issued a total of $605 billion Treasury bills and notes in February in order to finance its economic stimulus plans. Against this backdrop, the Fund continued to closely track the returns and duration of the index in February. Moving forward, we expect volatility to persist given global economic slowdown and supply risks. Investors of the Fund are advised to pursue a long-term investment horizon.
