OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Chase Asia Total Return Philippines Bond Index increased by 1.93% in October. Yields of Philippine dollar denominated bonds decreased an average of 37basis points as global risk appetite was noted at the start of the month.

Investors were encouraged to take on positions, given expectations of a delay in the Federal Reserve lift off after disappointing payrolls figures. Comments from ECB president Mario Draghi that suggested readiness to further stimulate the economy further increased risk appetite. However, sentiment quickly changed towards the end of the month after FED Chairwoman Yellen highlighted that a tightening in policy rates could still occur within 2015.

Fund Performance. The Fund gained 1.76% for the month.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to closely track changes to the JPMorgan Asia Credit Total Return Index. Investors in a bond fund must be prepared to withstand volatility as higher investment value is typically achieved over the medium to long term.
