OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Chase Asia Total Return Philippines Bond Index decreased by 0.51% in November. Yields of Philippine dollar denominated bonds increased an average of 24 basis points as global risk aversion was noted.

Divergent forces acted on the fixed income market, with policy action widely expected from the ECB and the FOMC in December. Markets were encouraged by signs of apparent willingness from ECB President Mario Draghi to add stimulus to the economy. The Federal Reserve on the other hand continues to highlight the likelihood of the beginning of rate normalization as employment gains have made the US economy more resilient.

Fund Performance. The Fund lost 0.64% for the month.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will continue to closely track changes to the JPMorgan Asia Credit Total Return Index. Investors in a bond fund must be prepared to withstand volatility as higher investment value is typically achieved over the medium to long term.
