OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. The JP Morgan Asia Credit Index (JACI) Philippines lost 0.07% in October as Philippine dollar-denominated bond yields generally moved higher across the yield curve by an average of 4 basis points.

Bond prices declined as investors moved to further price in a December Federal Reserve rate hike. Selling pressure on bonds likewise worsened as the US tax reform plan made some headway during the month, and as investors awaited US President Donald Trump's decision on who would be replacing Janet Yellen when she steps down as Federal Reserve Chair next year. Towards month-end, Trump's choices on who would succeed Yellen were narrowed down to two. The frontrunner was Jerome Powell, a current Federal Reserve governor who was perceived to continue Janet Yellen's stance of a gradual balance sheet wind-down. The other candidate, John Taylor, was an economist from Stanford who was seen to stand for more hawkish policies. As a result of the apparent differences between these two candidates, market players erred on the side of caution and reduced their bond holdings. The US 10-year benchmark Treasury yield thus rose 5 basis points for the month, closing at the 2.38% level.

Local inflation for the month of September increased to 3.4%, beating the consensus estimate of 3.2% as food and fuel prices continue to rise. Nevertheless, the year-to-date 9-month average figure of 3.1% remained well within the BSP's targeted range of 2-4% for 2017. Manageable inflation coupled with continued robust economic growth should allow the BSP to keep its policy rates accommodative.

Fund Performance. The Fund rose by 0.10% October, beating the benchmark by 2 basis points.

Fund Strategy. The Fund will maintain its duration of less than 1 and will continuously look into corporate bonds for yield enhancement.
