INVESTMENT OBJECTIVE AND STRATEGY

The objective of this Fund is to pursue long term capital appreciation by investing in a diversified portfolio of attractively priced stocks with high dividend yields in the Asia Pacific region. The Fund aims to outperform its benchmark, the MSCI AC Asia Pacific ex-Japan Total Return Index.

CLIENT SUITABILITY

A client profiling process should be performed prior to participating in the Fund to guide the prospective investor if the Fund is suited to his/her investment objectives and risk tolerance. Clients are advised to read the Declaration of Trust / Plan Rules of the Fund, which may be obtained from the Trustee, before deciding to invest.

The Odyssey Asia Pacific High Dividend Equity Fund is suitable only for investors who:

- Are at least classified as aggressive based on their risk profile
- Have an investment horizon of at least five (5) years

KEY RISKS AND RISK MANAGEMENT

You should not invest in this Fund if you do not understand or are not comfortable with the accompanying risks.

Market/Price Risk: Investors are exposed to adverse changes in the prices of high dividend yield stocks in the Asia Pacific Region, which may be brought about by adverse stock market conditions, unfavorable company earnings and valuations and negative developments in the political and economic conditions of countries in the Asia Pacific Region.

Liquidity Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss due to the fund's inability to convert equity holdings to cash immediately or in instances where conversion to cash is possible but at a highly disadvantageous price due to limited participants in the market, low trading volumes or market disruptions, among others.

Country Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss arising from negative developments in the political, economic and social conditions of countries in the Asia Pacific region, which may adversely affect the prices of its stocks.

FX Risk: Investors are exposed to the risk of loss from a decline in fund value when the market value of the foreign currency denominated equity securities held by the fund are translated to USD.

The Fund's investment outlets undergo proper screening and evaluation in accordance with the Trustee's accreditation process and minimum regulatory requirements. Regulatory exposure limits and asset allocation ranges as provided in the Fund's Plan Rules are strictly adhered to and monitored on a regular basis. The Fund may also use financial derivatives to hedge the portfolio against market and credit risks.

OUTLOOK AND STRATEGY

Market Review. Asian equities ended the year strongly with a few markets reaching record high. The month was marked by rate hikes and tax cuts in the US as well as the European Central Bank extending quantitative easing to September 2018. All Asian markets rose against this backdrop with ASEAN leading the way while Greater China lagged. Indonesia was the best performer and closed at an all-time high as trading activity rebounded. The Philippines continued to rally as the tax reform was passed. Thailand also outperformed driven by energy names as the oil price edged higher. India recovered strongly after the ruling party won in two state elections. Meanwhile, China, Hong Kong and Taiwan lagged after stellar outperformance and also consolidation in the technology sector amid concerns of a weaker than expected handset demand in China and ongoing talks of weak iPhone X sales.

Fund Performance. The fund underperformed the benchmark this month.

On the positive side, stock selection in Singapore benefited as our holdings in financials such as banking name DBS outperformed on more favourable rates environment. Exposures in China consumption also paid off. Pork products supplier WH Group which owns Smithfield Foods (the largest pork company in the US) strengthened on positive sentiment post the passage of US Tax Reform Bill. Exposures to energy-related names such as CNOOC and Sinopec Engineering helped as the oil price edged higher. From a sectoral point of view, the underweight in technology contributed as the sector was under profit taking pressure amid concerns of a weaker than expected handset demand in China and ongoing talks of weak iPhone X sales. Internet and eCommerce names also took a breather after the stellar performance.

On the negative side, stock selection in Thailand hurt. The market was helped by telecom, energy and tourism names, but our exposures are mainly in financials and property. Elsewhere in China, utilities names remain under pressure as there was no news of tariff hike while coal price continued to grind higher. Other holdings such as toll road, telecom and computer name also lagged.

Fund Strategy. The global growth outlook remains robust with forward looking indicators suggesting extended strength. At the same time, inflation pressure stays contained implying global central banks can maintain their gradual path towards rate normalization. Coupled with a softer US dollar, this Goldilocks environment should be very supportive for Asian equities. Overall, Asian equities are merely approaching the middle of their recovery. Valuations and flows have yet to reach “overshoot” territory, and the trajectories of earnings argue for further gains for the asset class. Notably in terms of earnings, both realized earnings and earnings estimates are increasing, but even more impressively, earnings revision ratio for Asia continued to improve and is broadening out. Income investing can still work in this benign reflationary environment, as there are more cyclical and financials than defensives in the Asia high dividend universe. Valuation gap between bond proxies and financials remains wide, and we believe there is further room to converge. Our core strategy remains unchanged with a preference for both value and low beta, and any adjustments will be driven by valuation changes.
